28th Jan 2020

With so much hype around AI today, it is difficult to see where the real value lies for your business.

In this half day session we will introduce AI and what's different now. Critically we will consider AI in terms of business value and take you through real world case studies where AI has delivered tangible value. We explain how you can get started on considering your AI strategy, from understanding the value of data to the business goals AI can realise.
